More Than Just Great Swag

We believe great products should reflect great values. That's why we prioritize our workforce, sustainable practices, nonprofit partnerships, and work with diverse suppliers—ensuring our offerings are as inclusive and responsible as our clients.

Our Workforce

Brand Makers is all about being a great place to work. When we started back in 2008, it was on the first page of the business plan to prioritize staff happiness. We are an award winning company that has been recognized by PPAI as one of the "Greatest Companies to Work For".

Supplier Diversity and Accountability

We have worked to discover a supplier base that is as inclusive and responsible as our clients. What is important to you, is important to us. Our commitment to high standards extends to our partners as well. We seek out organizations that demonstrate strong environmental responsibility and maintain ethical, supportive workplaces. 🌱

Eco-Friendly

We prioritize partnering with environmentally responsible suppliers who follow sustainable practices. By selecting eco-friendly materials and emphasizing responsible sourcing, we help build a more sustainable and resilient supply chain. Check out some eco friendly ideas here (should link to look book section).

Community Involvement

Brand Makers is about more than just business. We actually care. Having held over 30 company sponsored service projects, we know that helping the community is like holding a branded tumbler with your favorite hot drink. Everyone can see you do it, but you're the only one that gets that warm feeling. Tell your favorite Brand Makers team member that you saw this cheezy joke and get extra special service on your next project. Oh, and we think Give Back Suppliers are really cool too.

Reducing Waste

Reducing waste is all about having the right ideas. In our industry, successful sustainability initiatives are often about client education. Our approach with clients has always been to propose items that will get significant use. In simple terms, we guide clients to pick items that are usable in everyday life. Not only does this lead to a better experience for recipients, but also results in a successful outcome in sustainability through reduced waste and mindful production.

Company Emissions

We frequently review company-wide processes regarding event travel, work from home, packaging, printing, freight carrier analysis, meeting travel, hard invoice mailing, and sustainable product availability for our customers. We are deeply committed to responsible business practices that extend across our entire supply chain, from sourcing to production. Our focus on Responsible Sourcing, Vendor Social Accountability, and Product Safety and Compliance ensures that we not only meet, but exceed industry standards for ethics, quality, and environmental responsibility.

Security and Privacy

(insert fear statement that shows we understand the threat - link to information). We take a comprehensive approach to security, privacy, and data control to ensure your information stays protected at every stage. We frequently train staff on security and threat awareness and ensure best security practices among employees.
